Acknowledgements

Our purpose in setting down a visual history of Flin Flon originally was to provide a remembrance for our Jubilee Year. A book that would perhaps complement the written history book published by the Flin Flon Historical Society in 1974.

It was in the doing this that it became more than a project and a part of our lives.

We would like to thank the citizens of Flin Flon, past and present, some of whom are contained within the pages of this book, without whom there wouldn't have been a visual history.

Our thanks to the city of Flin Flon for giving us the opportunity to work on this project, the Flin Flon Historical Society, Flin Flon Public Library and the Hudson Bay Mining & Smelting Co., Limited. This record would have been impossible without the co-operation of many individuals who selected photos from their collections and answered innumerable questions.

Special thanks to Bruce and Darlene Reid, Rich Billy, Tom Dobson and Reuben Hagan for providing photos, advice and making our jobs so much easier and enjoyable.

We gratefully acknowledge the patience and understanding of our families and friends. It was a long year.

Our apologies to any we may have inadvertently left out.

OUR TOWN

It's boulevards are barren rock
With patches here and there
Of Polular stumps and rounded lumps
Of muskeg, brown and bare.

It's little shacks and houses
Are every shape and size,
Some way down in the muskeg brown
And some up in the skies.

A mill, some shops, a hoistroom,
A headframe out of line,
An assay lab and a bunkhouse drab
And a dump, make up the mine.

The motley population,
Has come from East and West
Alsase-Lorraine and rich Ukraine
Hong Kong and Budapest.

Spaghetti-eating 'Talianis,
And garlic-eating Jews,
Yonsons tight and Finn's who fight
And Scotsmen chasing booze.

The streets are never empty,
The cafes never close
There's mirth and song the whole day long
From blant radios.

The parlour seems like bedlam
With raucous shouts and roars,
While lusty calls and sounds of brawls
Float through the pool room doors.

But yet, with all it's ups and downs
I do not sulk or frown,
If the price of Gold will only hold
It's God's own very town.

The above poem was found in a local newspaper, circa 1934-39.

This, then, was our beginning.

The people that came to Flin Flon were from varied economic and cultural backgrounds. Not satisfied to relinquish a part of their past lifestyles, and surrounded by rock, trees and water, they melded their efforts together to form a solid community, despite their isolation. And so, aided and encouraged by the Mining Company, they learned to work and play together.

Much has been written and said about Flin Flon and these people who came only to seek their fortunes, but stayed to build a community; about smelter smoke and sewer boxes, harsh winters and hockey players, exporting children to higher learning along with the copper, about what makes Flin Flon unique. The uniqueness of Flin Flon cannot be captured by picture or the written word. It came from the hearts of those men and women who came North, never asking who a man was, but what he could do. A uniqueness that breeds people with warm hearts and willing hands. Over the years all men have remained, one with another. It is this feeling that makes Flin Floners, wherever they go, group together. The Jubilee Committee have endeavored to recapture some of the comradery of our parents and grandparents during the events of this Anniversary year. The Editors of this book have attempted to depict the working, cultural and recreational aspects of life in Flin Flon over some fifty years. As you peruse these pages may you recall many happy occasions of life here. This Visual History could not have been completed without the generosity of so many people who donated of their moment in time that we may enjoy. This book is dedicated to all those who have, who are and who will live in Flin Flon. This will always be a community more precious than the metals it exports.

The MANDY MINE "Glory Hole" at Schist Lake winter of 1916-1917.

High grade copper ore was hauled by horse team during the winter months from Mandy Mine to Sturgeon Landing and stockpiled for delivery to The Pas in the summer. (Manitoba Archives)

The ore was loaded from the stockpile into buggies — (Manitoba Archives)

Then dumped manually into the barge. (Manitoba Archives)

The barges were pushed by boat (S. S. Nipawin) to The Pas. The ore was then loaded into boxcars and shipped to the Smelter at Trail, B.C. Approximately 26,000 tons of ore was shipped from 1917 to 1920. (Manitoba Archives)

The visiting group included Premier T. C. Norris and his cabinet; members of the press and several prominent business men; along with The Pas Board of Trade who had issued the invitation to visit the north.

John 'Jack' Edward Hammell, mining promoter and part owner of the Flin Flon property. (Northern Miner — 1935)

Scott Turner, consulting engineer for Mining Corporation of Canada. Turner recommended that the Mining Corporation proceed with further experimental work on the Flin Flon property. 1920-1925. (S. Turner Estate)

Roscoe Henry Channing, left, in charge of the Flin Flon property and first president of Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Co., Limited 1924-1956. Oliver Lasby Flanagan, hydraulic engineer responsible for the construction of the Island Falls project. 1915-1943 (HBM&S)

Robert Early Phelan, employed in 1922 by R. H. Channing Jr. as chief engineer to examine the ore body at Flin Flon. Phelan was General Manager of Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Co., Limited 1927-1938. (P. LaPrairie)

Maurice A. Roche, left, Mine Superintendent and Assistant to the General Manager 1926-1960. Waldron Alvord Green came to Flin Flon in 1925 as part of the group headed by R. E. Phelan. Green was Superintendent of the property 1926-1938. General Manager 1938-1957. (W. S. B. Lockhart)

Stanley Simpson carried the mail and drilling supplies between The Pas and Flin Flon. Equipment included dogs, sled and canoe. During the spring and fall the dogs hauled the canoe on the sled over the frozen lakes, while the canoe carried the dogs and sled over the open water. (Manitoba Archives 1919-1920)

Teams of horses hauled wagons across the sixteen mile portage to Lake Athapapuskow from Hayes stopping place at Sturgeon Landing. Passengers were Mrs. Tom Lamb and Mrs. Jack Hone. (J. Hone September 1926)

A barge system was used from Cranberry Portage to Flin Flon before the railway was complete. These barges carried everything to the camp site, including horses. (F. Willis 1928)

Logs were laid side by side over muskeg areas to create a 'corduroy' road. (Manitoba Archives 1925)

Dog teams were a popular sight during the northern winter months. This probably explains why dogs were so plentiful in the early days of Flin Flon (H. Ennis 1928)

An all-purpose canoe that could be pulled over the ice on runners and when open water had to be crossed the sled was removed. (H. Ennis 1928)

When nothing else was available, foot transportation on poles over the many stretches of muskeg was necessary between Wabishkok and Kiskeynew Lakes on the way to Island Falls. (H. Ennis 1928)

Flin Flon camp site in the fall of 1928. Tents were set up as temporary residence for construction workers. Jack Hone's store to the right, sits in front of the site of the main shaft. (HBM&S)

Construction of pilot mill began in August 1926 and went into operation March 1927. Steam lines ran from the powerhouse on the right to the assay office and mill. (H. Ennis 1928)

A dam was built across Flin Flon Lake to allow the water to be pumped out in preparation for excavation of the ore body by open pit mining. (W. S. B. Lockhart 1928)

Flin Flon's business district situated near Flin Flon Lake consisted of Northland Drug Company, The Royal Bank of Canada and the Canadian Bank of Commerce. (F. A. Hollier 1928)

Hockey on the Flin Flon Lake rink provided many hours of recreation during the long winter months. (W. H. Barker 1928)

The many lakes along the RAILWAY ROUTE from Cranberry Portage to Flin Flon allowed access to several different points for clearing and grading ahead of the steel. (H. Guymer 1928)

Rails were laid over frozen muskeg and gravel spread to prevent thawing under the tracks during warm weather. (F. Wells 1928)

Piling for the Channing trestle was put in place during the winter months. Construction of the railway began in January 1928 and was completed by October 1928. (E. Germain 1928)

Clearing blasted rock. The side car was used for dumping gravel. (F. Wells 1928)

The Henty Trophy was donated by W. R. 'Hendy' Henderson in 1931 to the winner of the JUNIOR DOG MUSHING CHAMPIONSHIP RACE. This race was a 9½ mile run from the Flin Flon Hotel to Mandy Mine and return. Races were run weekly with the winners racing against each other in the final run for the trophy. W. R. Henderson died on November 28, 1938 and the Elks Lodge took over the sponsorship of the races until 1941, when the expense of keeping dogs during the war years became too much of a burden. (H. Montagnes)

Warren Plummer, shown with W. R. Henderson, was the first winner of the Henty Trophy with a time of 1 hour, 12 minutes and 14 seconds on March 7, 1931. (A. Plummer)

Mushers lined up for the start of the 1933 race. Alphonse Chartrand from The Pas was the trophy winner. (F. Wells)

Junior Dog Racing was a well attended sport. Fergus Streamer of Cranberry Portage won the race in February 1934 and again in 1935. (A. Plummer)

February 18, 1936 was a tough year on dogs and sleds because of the 'Bonspiel Thaw'. Billy Kelly won both the 1936 and 1937 races. (E. Germain)

Other trophy winners were 1932 — Florence May, 1938 — Gordon Kelly, 1939 and 1940 — Fred Slade of Cranberry Portage.

William Race Henderson, one of the founders of Reg'lar Fellers (1933), an organization for boys of all ages that emphasized camping and sportsmanship. (Kay Fagrie)

The month-long strike (June 9 to July 9, 1934) forced the closure of the Company. (J. Paylor)

Approximately 92 members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police were stationed in Flin Flon during the final week of the dispute. (W. B. S. Lockhart)

Voters at the Community Hall were met with opposition on Saturday, June 30, 1934. (F. A. Hollier)

Leaders of the strike were arrested and escorted to the station by RCMP. (Manitoba Archives July 6, 1934)

On July 9, 1934 the men marched back to work. (W. B. S. Lockhart)

Hapnot School officially opened on November 26, 1934. (Ken Allen)

George B. Mainwaring — Mayor of Flin Flon 1935 and 1936. (J. Paylor)

Ross Lake School was built in 1935. (J. Paylor)

The Post Office (right) moved off Main Street to First Avenue in 1931 and was remodelled in June 1933. The CNR Station opened officially in December 1934. (M. Laing)

The second storey of the Post Office was enlarged in November 1935. (Bal Biggs)

On May 6, 1935, Flin Flon paid tribute to King George and Queen Mary on their Silver Jubilee. The Canadian Legion supervised the preparation for the parade under Marshal J. D. McMartin, President of the Legion. (W. B. S. Lockhart)

The most spectacular float of the parade was constructed by the B.P.O. Elks, titled "On Guard". A mammoth aluminum elk stood over a miniature of the Elks Home. (W. B. S. Lockhart)

The Canadian Slovak League attired in blue shirts, followed their float. They were awarded a special prize for the best organized unit. (W. B. S. Lockhart)

The Hungarian Cultural Society Dancers, some of which were Louis Tusz, Paul Huszti, Mrs. J. Halasz, Emily and Marta Balogh. (W. B. S. Lockhart)

The Hollanders' float won first prize. Those on the float were Albert Voss, Nuiskes Bros., Jim Aplin, Lena Van-Doorn, Tom Heyland, Mr. and Mrs. Len VanderWal. (W. B. S. Lockhart)

The Danes, dressed in ancient garb of the Vikings, took second prize. (L. Johnson)

The Medical Services provided the Royal Coach drawn by four horses. Seated inside were Emile Arsenault and Svea Sjoberg, winners of the King and Queen Contest. Other contestants acted as King's pages. (W. B. S. Lockhart)

St. James Church building was started in 1931, and officially opened by Bishop Thomas on July 7, 1931. (St. James Church)
